

Excavations related to urban development of the Plateau de la Baille

Demolitions and earthworks carried out around the square 'Place de la Baille' in Mâcon involved the intervention of archaeologists.

In 1959, 1960, 1968 and 1982, they performed urgent excavations to avoid the destruction and disappearance of remains from earlier eras.

Observations made and specimens collected enabled a new understanding of the town's old centre.

Rescue excavation to the north of the Plateau de la Baille by the Groupement Archéologique du Mâconnais in 1968. Unearthing of Gaulish dwellings on the site of the Convent of the Carmélites
